

Introduction

Jeremiah writes about a fire shut up in his bones. Although he tries not to speak the politically incorrect words from the Lord he is unable to be quiet. This struggle he describes as a fire shut up in his bones.

I, too, have experienced this fire. Each day for several months, the Lord quickened a scripture to me. In obedience I put my life on hold and wrote about the scripture.

At first I thought the well would never run dry. Then one day the scriptures stopped. And this prayer and devotional book was birthed.

My prayer for my readers is to walk with me on the Highway of Holiness. Experience with me God's gentle, guiding hand as He leads us with everlasting joy to Zion.
